A GEORGIA INCIDENT.

Serving a Warrant on Lost Mountain—A Rather Tiskish Job.

From Joel Chandler Harris' humorous and dramatic story, "Treachery on Lost Mountain," in the Century, we take this characteristic incident of mountain life in Northern Georgia: "On one occasion shortly after the war, Abe had gone to a little country town on business, and had been vexed into laying roughs on one of the prominent citizens who was a trifle under the influence of liquor. A warrant was issued, and Dave McLendon, the sheriff of the county, a stumpy little man, whose boldness and prudence made him the terror of criminals, was sent to serve it. Abe, who was on the lookout for some such visitation, saw him coming, and prepared himself. He stood in the doorway, with his rifle flung carelessly across his left arm.

"Hold on there, Dave!" cried, as the latter came up. The sheriff, knowing his master, said:

"I hate to fling away my manners, Dave, he want on, but the girls is gittin' to the ministry foun' these days. A man's obliged to s'arch his best fren's fore he kin find out th' what's what."

"Well, Dave, hit won't fetch me, said Abe.

"O, yes!" said the sheriff. "Yes it will, Abe, you kin-nis' these kind er warrauns a mighty long time, an' they fetches a feller every whack."

"Now, I'll tell you what, Dave," said Abe, patting his rifle, "I got a dockyment here that'll fetch you a blamin' sight quicker'n your dockyment fetches me!" And he went to lay down his rifle.

"The sheriff leaned carelessly against the rail fence in the attitude of a man who is willing to argue an interesting question.

"Well, I tell you how I feel about it, Abe," said the sheriff, speaking very slowly. "You kin shoot me, but you can't shoot the law. Bang away at me, an' that's another warraun after you. This yer one what I already got don't amount to shucks, so you better fling on your coat, saddle your horse, an' go right along; we'll see you again by ex' unghor."

"Dave," said Abe, "if you come in at that gate you a goner."

"Well, Abe," the sheriff replied, "I 'lowed you kin' kick, I know what human nature is, an' I them hard some or the hays to come along. They're right down thar in the holler. They hasn't got no mud' heat what I come for'n the man in the moon; rit they'll make a mighty peart posse. Toohy shore, a great big man like you ain't afeard for ter face a little bit or law."

"Ahe Highwater hesitated a moment and then went into the house. In a few minutes he issued forth and went out to the gate where the sheriff was. The faces of the two men were a study. Neither betrayed any emotion nor alluded to the warrant. The sheriff asked after the trap, and Abe told him it was "midlin' heat," and asked him to go into the house and make himself at home until the horses could be saddled. After a while a trooper rode away. Once again the ride Abe said:

"I'm mighty glad it wasn't that feller what run ag'in you last fall, Dave," Why?" asked the sheriff.

"Bukase I'd a plugged him, certain an' share, said Abe.

"Well," said the sheriff, laughing, "I wuz a-wishin' mighty hard thas' about that time that the t'other feller had got 'lected."

UNPRENTIOS,

The Case With Which President Lincoln Adapted Himself to Circumstances.

President Lincoln would have been very fond of Mark Tapley, that here of Dickens who was "always jolly under difficulties." There was nothing pretentious about the President, and he easily adapted himself to circumstances. Just before the close of the war he ran away from the politicians and office-seekers of Washington, went down to City Pol in the steamer River Queen, and invited himself to stay with Admiral Porter on board the flag-ship Monitor. She was a small vessel, poor accommodations, but the President was content to occupy a small stateroom, six feet long by four and a half wide, and would not accept the Admiral's larger room. When he retired for the first night on board, he put his shoes and socks outside of his stateroom door. The socks and holes in them, the toes cut, washed and darned by the ship's tailor, and placed with his clean shoes at his door.

"A miracle happened to me last night," said the President at the breakfast table. "When I went to bed I had two large holes in my socks, and this morning there are no holes in them. That never happened to me before; it must be a miracle."

"How did you sleep, Mr. President?" asked the Admiral.

"I slept well," he answered; "but you can't put a long blade into a short scabbard. I was too long for that berth."

The President was six feet four inches in height, and the berth was only six feet long.

That day, while the President was away from the ship, the carpenters enlarged the stateroom, lengthened the back and made up the mattress to fit it. Nothing was said about the change to the President. The next morning he came out smiling.

"A greater miracle than ever happened last night," said he, "I shrank six inches in length and about a foot sideways. I got somebody else's big pillow and slept in a better bed than I did on the River Queen, though not half so lively."

"This is only a part of beauty but it is a part. Every lady may have it; at least, what looks like it. Magnolia Balm both freshens and beautifies."

The Legislature of South Carolina has apportioned $1,000 in order that a practical test may be made in the culture of tobacco. A premium of $50 is to be given to one farmer in each county and a premium of $100 to the farmer reporting the best result. The selection is to be made by a committee of three practical farmers in each county, appointed by the Commissioner of Agriculture.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

—A remarkable importation at Victoria, B. C., lately, was six hundred pounds of shavings, all the way from New Jersey. The apparent incongruity of such an importation to a country full of saw-mills is explained by the fact that the shavings are of red birch, to be used in the manufacture of vinegar.

The Secretary of the Treasury has called in $10,000,000 of 3 per cent. bonds for redemption on May 1st.

Seven thousand female cloak and dress makers struck against the contract system in New York Tuesday.

There is still no compromise on foot with the striking railroad employees. The strike seems to be gradually extending over the whole country.

There is a big fight in the Senate over a bill that proposes to create Carlisle county out of part of Ballard. It has already passed the House, but has struck a snag in the Senate.

We have received a copy of the "Old Hickory Pictorial Annual for 1886," issued by Albert B. Tavel, publisher and stationer, Nashville. It is a very handsome and profusely illustrated almanac.

Emperor William III, of Germany, celebrated the 80th anniversary of his birthday at Berlin on the 23rd inst. Business was entirely suspended and the streets were crowded with people in holiday attire.

We are indebted to our young friend J. O. McReynolds, who is now a student at Lexington, Ky., for a copy of "The Atlantic," the magazine published by the students of the college, of which he is editor-in-chief.

The bill making gambling a felony has passed both Houses of the Legislature and only needs the Governor's signature to become a law. The penalty is a fine of $500 and confinement in the penitentiary for from one to three years. The law is to apply to all kinds of gambling excepting pools on horse-racing.

Gov. Stowman has appointed George Hearst U. S. Senator from California to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator Miller. Mr. Hearst was the Democratic candidate against Senator Stanford last year. He will serve until the Legislature which will meet next January can choose his successor. Miller was a Republican.

Miss Talitha Stevens, at Fayetteville, Tenn., sued Rev. J. G. Woods, a wealthy Baptist preacher, for seduction and the jury gave her a verdict of $5,000 damages. The trial occupied nearly two weeks. The case will be taken to the supreme court. Woods is a man who has grand-children while the girl is about 24 or 25 years old, and is the daughter of a brother in the church with whom was in the habit of stopping in going to and coming from his appointments in the country.

We are in receipt of the Report of the Progress of the Kentucky Geological Survey from January 1884 to January 1886. Professor Proctor gives a detailed statement of the progress of the work and the prospects for good results. Under head of Bureau of Immigration, the director reports settlement of 800 persons, mostly Swiss, in Laurel county, over 800 in Lincoln county, 105 in Boyle, mainly Austrians, 100 in Edmonson, Swedes, 100 in Grayson, 149 in Christian, and a few in Lyon. - Farmer's Home Journal.

Speaker Offutt was sustainted by the House in his quarrel with Maddeu but the newspaper reports of the committee's investigation clearly indicate that the facts sustainted Maddeu. Mr. Bullitt's statement left no room for doubt that Speaker Offutt told him that he didn't want the day's session excluded because he was "afraid the d-d gambling bill would come up." The conversation doubtless was a private one, as the Speaker claims, but it certainly occurred and Mr. Offutt cannot afford to let the matter rest as reported by the white-washing committee. If he was willing for a friend to know that he would use his office to throw obstructions in the way of legislation that did not accord with his ideas, then he should not feel aggrieved if a wide-awake correspondent overheard the remark and made it public. This episode cannot fail to leave an ugly blot upon the public record of a very bright and ambitious young man.

KELLY STATION, KY.

MARCH 23, 1886.

EN. SOUTH KENTUCKIAN:

The establishment of a magisterial and voting precinct in this place the aspirations of the community at large have been elevated to an alarming extent; most every male over 21 years old is an aspirant to the high office of Magistrate. I would not be surprised to hear of the ladies announcing themselves as candidates; I think we will have to call a primary and rule off the slowest boats, in order to obtain voters, as the candidates will be afraid to vote against themselves.

Since the adjournment of the Grand Jury, the boys have returned from their hiding places, with an unmistakable look of relief upon their faces. Those who did not retreat to a place of security, would dodge to the bushes every time anybody came riding in sight.

I would like to note down a marriage, but there are no more matrimony inclined, except myself, and I cannot find a young lady who will agree for me to report my own marriage.

The voice of the plowman is heard on every farm, telling us crop time is here. A preparation is being made for a large crop of tobacco, notwithstanding the low price of the weed. Preaching at Kelly the first Sunday night, by Rev. T. L. Crandell, I. C. Ranger.

Death of Dr. Wheeler.

Dr. James Wheeler who has been failing health for some time, died at his home five miles from the city, on the Clarksville pike, at an early hour Tuesday morning. Dr. Wheeler was born in Middlesex, England, April 11, 1811, and was consequently nearly 75 years of age. He graduated from Columbia College, S. C., and in 1812 moved to Kentucky, having married Miss Lizzie Watkins, of Virginia. He practiced medicine with great success until after the late war when he began to devote his attention to farming, since which time he has been one of the leading planters of the county. Dr. Wheeler raised eleven children. Three sons—James, John and Joel—are dead. Two sons and six daughters survive, all of whom were at his bedside when the spark of life went out. They are Dr. W. G. Wheeler, of this city; Mr. Chas. K. Wheeler, of Paducah; Mrs. Jas. Campbell and Mrs. Wm. Bradshaw, of Paducah; Mrs. Dr. Drane, of Clarksville; Mrs. Jno. H. Dodge, of Atlanta, Ga.; Mrs. Chas. Morris, of Evansville, Ind., and Miss Emma Wheeler.

His funeral was preached at Grace Episcopal church Wednesday afternoon, by Rev. J. W. Venable. He had been for years one of the main pillars of the church and his death will leave a vacancy in the membership that will be hard to fill. Dr. Wheeler was a gentleman in every sense of the word. He was a man of brilliant and broad intellect and his opinions were expressed with a frankness and earnestness that carried conviction with them. He was the very soul of hospitality, as all who over crossed his threshold can testify. A good, a kind and a noble man has fallen. His remains were interred in the City Cemetery.

Excursion to Florida.

There will be two excursion trains from Hopkinsville to Florida on April 1st. The following are the prices of round trip tickets:

To Florida and return..... $10.80

To Jacksonville and return..... 14.55

To Ocala and return..... 16.30

To Sanford and return..... 17.05

To Leesburg and return..... 17.05

These prices are so low that any person wanting to visit the Southern climate can afford to do so. After getting to Florida you can purchase tickets to any part of the State at the same rate per mile. Tickets will be good to return until May 1st, giving ample time to all. The rates are lower than ever offered, and are not liable to be so cheap again. You can have sleeping car berths reserved by addressing J. H. Miller, or C. P. Atmore, Louisville.

HERE AND THERE.

Mr. E. H. Ham, of Paducah, the Fish King, is in the city with 500 lbs. fresh fish, which he is offering at very low figures.

Three members of Co. D.—Logan Feland, Walter Campbell and Mat Mitchell—returned from Greenwood Wednesday.

Two young ladies joined the Baptist church Wednesday evening. They were students of Bethel Female College.

Miss Alice Hayes' stock of millinery this spring will be more complete than ever before, and she expects to suit all her customers in prices and goods.

Bill Woods, col., attempted to break into the house of his divorced wife at Mr. Newton Payne's the other night and was tried before Esq. Anderson and fined $10 yesterday.

"Horse Shoe Brand" Corn Grower will produce more bushels of good corn to the acre than any other brand on the market. It makes 90 bushels per acre.

J. R. Green & Co.

A lengthy call upon Mr. W. H. Merritt to become a candidate for Magistrate in this district appears in this issue. It was unintentionally lost out of last Tuesday's paper.

The third quarterly meeting for the year will be held at the Methodist church next Sunday morning. There will also be a communion service at the same time.

The books for subscription of stock in the 9th series of the Hopkinsville Building and Loan Association will be open on April 1st. Apply at office of Long, Garnett & Co.

Thos. W. Long, Treas.

Mr. Gov. Knight is still postmaster at Organette. He says that if his commission has been revoked or the office changed to Herndon, (as we announced upon the authority of a gentleman living at Herndon) that he has not been so notified.

Prof. J. W. Inst appointed by the Baptist Executive Board to assist in the organization of the circle and Sunday school work, is invited to make an address at West Mt. Zoar, at 10 o'clock A. M., the second Sunday in April.

Hon. Willard F. Browder, of Russellville is to deliver the Annual Literary Address before Bethel Female College at the next commencement, and Rev. Dr. C. H. Strickland is to preach the sermon. Two better selections could not have been easily made.

The Anchor Brand Fertilizer sales this year are ahead of expectations, which goes to prove that the farmers who used it last year were more than pleased with its productive qualities.

Messrs. Williams & Co., handle this brand, and they will take pleasure in satisfying you of its many good qualities.

Mr. G. G. Roeder and Miss Mattie Foster were married at Concord church, 2 1/2 miles north of this city Wednesday evening, Rev. J. T. Barron officiating. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. Roeder and his bride came to the city and occupied a cottage on High Street, where they will keep house.

Mr. Henry C. Wheeler, a German, who owned a farm on the Russellville road, close to the Asylum, left last Tuesday with his family for Paducah, Ky., to carry on farming there where he expects to find a better market.

He took along in a whole car all his furniture, household goods, farming implements and stock. Over two years ago he moved here from Racine county, Wis., and had acquired and was enjoying here the highest respect and esteem of all for his industry and integrity.

A good many of the houses in the city have not yet been numbered. If they were properly canvassed there would be very few persons found who would not pay a quarter for a house-number. Why don't some of the local painters push the thing and finish the work begun by the gentlemen from Evansville? It can't be possible that all of the enterprising people in the city have already put up numbers and that every other house is occupied by an old foggy.

The "Horse Shoe Brand" Tobacco Grower stands without a rival as to quality, price and mechanical condition. It furnishes food for the plant from the beginning of the crop to its maturity. It makes tobacco that cures easy and uniformly.

No spotting. It largely increases the yield. The color and texture just right, and always bring the top market price. Our best farmers know these facts and are buying this brand in preference to any other.

J. R. Green & Co.

A little colored girl who lives at Dr. B. S. Wood's got a grain of corn in her ear last Tuesday. She tried to see if she could put it in at her ear and get it out of her mouth. She found that she could not succeed in the experiment and came running down in town, screaming at every jump, in search of a doctor to get it out. Dr. Sergeant and Dr. Bell put her to sleep and removed the grain, which was a very large one, and she will not be apt to try a similar experiment soon.

CALDWELL ACQUITTED.

No Case Made Out Against Him.

The case of W. W. Caldwell, charged with the murder of Green Stevens, was called Wednesday morning and speedily disposed of. The killing took place in what is known as Wilea Hollow, in Stuart's District, 16 miles out of this city, on the 21st of Dec., 1885. The following jury was empaneled, only five of the panel called in regular order being objected to:

THE JURY.

Lee Watson, P. A. Cushman, Jno. A. Browning, Wm. Johnson, Jno. W. Hanberry, Jno. H. White, D. J. McCord, John Boxley, R. S. Gary, J. J. Salmon, W. L. Cannon, G. W. Clark, Messrs. Landes & Clark appeared for Caldwell, who is a big stout looking Irishman about 40 years old.

THE PROSECUTION.

B. F. CASON:—Stevens and I had been to a turkey shooting at Hunter & Wilson's store the day of the killing and as we came back by Caldwell's house, Stevens stopped and went in. He had some words with Caldwell about a woman who had been moved to his house with a man named F. M. Dukes. Stevens is a little white came out of the house and Caldwell followed. Stevens came to where I was on a horse and jerked a gun and powder horn that I had begun to fix to load the gun. Caldwell came up and struck him in the neck with a pick and as the blood spurted out Stevens walked a few steps to an ash-hopper. He lived only a few minutes. Caldwell lived in an open place in the woods. No fence around the house. A man named Higginbotham moved the woman to Caldwell's with Dukes Sunday before the killing.

CROSS-EXAMINED:—Caldwell said he and Dukes were going to get out staves together and the woman was going to cook and take care of his little boy, as his wife had left him. The woman's name was Mary Rice. She had a bad character. Claimed to be Dukes' wife. Stevens told Dukes he must take the woman away. Caldwell got up and he told him if he tried to take it up he would hit him with a knife he had in his hand. Stevens then came out of the house as stated above. Caldwell had no gun.

DR. G. W. RIVES:—Testified that the woman killed Stevens.

J. N. STINNETT:—Knew both parties.

Heard Caldwell say on Dec. 22, that Stevens had mistreated him at a shooting and that he would be revenged. Think the mistreatment was that Stevens put a tow wad in Caldwell's gun when he went to shoot. Several others heard the statement.

This closed the case. The defense introduced no witnesses and the instructions of the court were given verbally. No speeches were made and the jury after being out only about two minutes returned a verdict of not guilty.

Mr. R. G. Hopkins of Pembroke, has just received his thoroughly thorough stock from Central Kentucky. Mr. Hopkins is one of our most enterprising farmers, and his efforts to introduce none but the best stock will doubtless be appreciated.

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:

I take this mode of informing persons owing the old firm of McElday, Graham & Co., that there is an obligation resting upon me to settle up the business. I would like to do so anyone, but it is not business to let these accounts run any longer and consequently I am forced to make this statement—viz.: that I will wait until the present tobacco crop now ready for market, is sold, after that all the accounts and notes due and unsettled will be placed in the hands of an attorney for collection.
